CLOSING UP THE SESSION. CONGRESS FINISHING UP THE AP PROPRIATION BILLS.

The President Objecting to the District Bill

Southed by the Joint Committee—The New Currency Bill Passed by the House— The Civil Rights Bill Killed.

WASHINGTON, June 21. - The Senate finished the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill at 10:30 last evening, having spent the whole of the day in its discussion. Nearly all the amendments of the Committee on Appropriations were agreed to. It is provided in the bill that hereafter no maps or illustrations shall be printed by order of the departments, nor except by the order of Congress. Mutilated currency and cancelled bonds are hereafter to be macerated instead of burned, which will save many thousand dollars annually. Twenty-five thousand dollars are appropriated to complete the expenditures for observing the transit of Venus. One million three hundred thousand dollars are appropriated for the District of Columbia. The House provision for abolishing the Civil Service Com-mission is stricken out, and $15,000 appropriated for the expenses of the commission.

Mr. Edmundy, from the Judiciary Committee, reported adversely on the petition of Susan B. Anthony, for a remission of the fine imposed upon her by the United States District Court for voting in Rochescer. If the retitioner thought her conviction erroneous, she could apply to the Executive, who had the power to pardon her.

Mr. Carpenter, expressing his views as a minority of the committee, said the decision of the court on her trial was erroneous, in taking the case from the jury and directing their verdict, and refus ng the request of her counsel to have the jury polled; thus denying to the jury not only the moral right, but even the power of rendering a verdict of not guilty. He concurred with the majority of the committee that Congress cannot grant the precise relief prayed for in the memorial; but he thought lit to be the duty of Congress to declare its disapproval of the doctrine asserted and the course pursued in the trial of Miss Anthony, and all the more for the reas in that no judicial court has jurisdiction to review the proceedings therein.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

INDIAN APPROPRIATIONS.

Mr. Loughridge (Rep., Iowa) presented the conference report on the Indian Appropriations bill, and said that the bill now appropriated $5.295,000; that the bill of last year had appropriated $5.399,000; and that the bill of the preceding year had appropriated $7.300,000.

The report was rejected, 67 to 147, and a new conference was asked.

The point on which the report was rejected was understood to be the substitution of Indian agents for Indian Commissioners.

Mr Maynard (Rep., Tehn.) asked unanimous consent for the passage of a bill to amend the Gold Bank law so as to allow the circulation of gold notes to be ninety per cent, instead of eighty per cent, of the par value of the bonds deposited. Agreed to, and the bill passed.

The Final Adjournment.

THE FINAL ADJOURNMENT.

The question of adjournment was brought up on an inquiry addressed to the Speaker. Mr. Blaine said that there was no doubt that the session will close on Monday, unless a new order is made. It was left an open question, whether the session shall close at the end of the calendar day, or run to the end of the legislative day, Tuesday, at Ho'clock. The Senate concurrent resolution for the adjournment at 12 o'clock Monday, June 22, which has been for several days on the Speaker's table, was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. The Speaker said that unless there should be a continuous Sunday session it would be utterly impossible to adjourn at 12 o'clock on Monday.

Mr. Maynard remarked that members were paid to stay and attend to the public business.

Mr. Butler (Rep., Mass)—Oh no! only half paid. [Laughter]. THE FINAL ADJOURNMENT. The question of adjournment was brought up on an inquiry addressed to the Speaker. ### KEEPING OFF PESTILENCE. THE QUARANTINE LAWS TO BE EN-FORCED AT PENSACOLA. Some Action that may laterest the New York Health Authorities-Yellow Jack's Work in a Florida Port in the Past.

PENSACOLA, Fla., June 14.-The quarantine question in this city has assumed a new requiring all vessels coming here from infected by interested parties to remove certain vessels from the quarantine limits by force, called upon the commanding officer at Barrancas barracks

In the latitude of New York city the conditions are not such usually as favor the development of these germs—two of the principal elements being wanting, namely, frequent alternations of extreme moisture and heat. Therefore the ordinary precautions used in the quaranting of a vessel in that port are sufficient. But not so in this climate, where the conditions are almost always favorable to the development of the germs into an active and wide-spreading disease. The land breezes sweeping over the swamps of the Carolinas, Georgia, and Mississippl and over the low lands of Louisiana bring to the inhabitants of this country levers closely alified to yellow fever, and the very fact of their presence is a sufficient indication that the atmosphere is in a condition favorable to the development of the yellow-fever poison. This being the case, and with the full knowledge that nothing but frost or superheated steam will kill the germs of the disease, it does seem that in such scaports as Pensacola, New Oricans, Mobile, and Charleston unusual precautions should be taken.

A Native Prince Abducts a Married Woman.

A curious story is told by a confemporary concerning his Highness the Maharajan of Gwalior. Scindia, while staying at Lucknow the other day, succeeded for a time in obtaining by violence possession of the lawful wife of a Mussimaan resident of that city. The woman had bornerly been the Maharajah's mistress, and he had two sons by her now grown up. She quitted his territories and went to Lucknow, where she contracted an alliance with a respectable Maliometan, who converted her to his faith, and she became his lawful wife at Mecca, which place both of them visited. The Maharajah wished to see this woman when at Lucknow lately, and not being able to do so with her consent, collected a number of armed men and forcibly seized her. On the proceedings coming to the knowledge of the magistrate, he forwarded the information to the Chief Commissioner, who politely requested the Maharajah to quit Lucknow forthwith, which he did by succial train. This open deflance of our laws, it is fortunate for the Maharajah, proceeded no further than to give the police at the mearest Thama me little trouble to rescue the woman, who if to her home.

GRANT'S RING MESSAGE.

Asking Congress to Aid the Pool who had Made a Corner on Anditors' Certificates— Half a Million Dellars Involved.

Washington, June 21.-The President's message to Congress in relation to the interest on the bonds of the District is universally acknowledged to be the most indefensible act of his whole official life. It was well understood that Shepherd and his friends had got up a cor phase since my last letter on the subject. The Board of Aldermen passed a resolution, May 31, desperate effort to amend the bill reported by the joint select committee abolishing the District Government. The effort failed in the adoption of that most salutary measure, the Mayor of the city and the United States Collector having learned that threats he is the Covernment. The effort failed in the immediate direction of Shepherd, railled in the office of Gorham, Secretary of the city and the United States Collector having learned that threats he is the control of the city and the United States Collector having learned that threats he is the city and the city and the united States Collector having learned that threats he is the city and city an House, and then a powerful lobby, under the immediate direction of Shepherd, rallied in the office of Gorham, Secretary of the Senate, and made a strong attack upons the Senate. Shepherd and Magruder boaste a few hours before the bill came up in the Senate that they had strength enough to carry heir point, but they were wofully mistaken, as the result proved. One of the lobby approached a gentleman who was known to have influence with certain Senators, and offered to take him into the pool if he would give them assistance. This agent of the Boss told him that they controlled four million of Auditor's certificates, and if they could get the rate of interest increased to five percent, they would clear half a million of dollars.

Every man of common sense who had read the bill reported by the committee and passed both Houses almost unanimously, knew that it only gave the creditors of the District an option to have their claims funded into the fifty years 3.65 percent, bonds. There is bothing in it requiring them to accept these bonds, and the majority of the committee was really opposed to providing for the funding of any portion of the debt until it was definitely ascertained what the total amount of it was; but notwinkstanding this plain fact, the President sent in his message, in which he said it was repudiation to compet the creditors of the District to accept these bonds. This showed beyond all question that he odd not know what he was talking about, and the committee in their report on his message very emphatically though indirectly say so, The truth of 579 against 34, of an amendment maintaining the present system of municipal election, tous overthrowing the three clauses of the bill which provide for the representation of the minority by cumulative voting. These clauses having been stricken from the bill, it again came up in the Assembly to-day in its modified form.

M. Fourton, Minister of the Interior, announced that the Government had accepted an amendment proposed by M. Clapter to the bill which extends for two years the operation of the present law, providing that the momination of mayors shall be made by the Government. The amendment was therefore adopted by a vote of 358 yeas to 359 nays.

A SUNDAY MORNING TRAGEDY.

A Saturday Night's Spree that Terminated in Bloodshed-The Renewal of a Ball Room Quarrel of Three Years Ago. Early yesterday morning James Corcoran of 247 West Thirty-third street and Henry McCov of 316 West Thirty-seventh street, and four other young residents of the Twentieth Ward, met in the eating saloon at Thirty-third street and Eighth avenue. Although there had been trouble between Corcoran and McCoy before, they ate and drank together amicably, and by common consent assaulted a street lamplighter who was extinguishing the gas. Officer Mulligan dispersed the crowd, but made no arrests. McCoy and one of his companions, named Tracey, walked up town, and Corcoran and the others went down the street. Mulligan followed McCoy and vestigation of the District affairs ordered by Tracy for a short distance. They then turned, and not seeing the officer walked rapidly toward and not seeing the officer walked rapidly toward Corcoran and his friends. They overtook them near Thirty-second street, and McCoy without a word stabbed Corcoran three times with a small pocket knife. Officer Mulligan, who had followed McCoy, saw Corcoran fall to the sidewalk bleeding copiously. McCoy wiped the knife on his coat, closed it, put it into his pocket, and then walked away, but Mulligan arrested him before he had gone far and took him to the Thirty-seventh street police station.

Corcoran fainted several times on the way to the station. His wounds were two ugly punctures in the abdomen and a long jagged cut in the left thigh. The shock utterly prostrated him, and he was too weak to give any connected account of the quarrel that led to the affray. He could say only that McCoy when he overtook him, said: "There is one thing I can give you," and stabbed him before he could make a move in self defence.

Corcoran was sent to Bellevue Hospital. The surgeon thought his wounds fatal. Coroner Croker took his ante mortem deposition, as follows:

Last night I was at a raffle in a liquor store in Twentyseventh street, between seventh and Eighth avenues, and was returning home at a clock thus (canday)

A New Orleans Newspaper Seized by the Kellogg Police. New Orleans, June 21.—At half-past twelve isst night, when the last forms of the Builetin (newspaper) were being conveyed to the press room, they were seized by the Metropolitan police, by order of Police Judge McArthur, and locked up in the Central station, where they still remain. The Builetin apstation, where they still remain. The Bulletin appeared this morning, with six printed and two binst pages, closing with a leader under the caption, "Another Michight Order;" "An Outrage on American Lloerty;" The Press to be Bulled and Suppressed." The Bulletin says, whether Durell, Kellogg, Baiger, or their underlings, are implicated, we cannot as yet say, but that this bold, audacious, and villainous robbery of a newspaper's material, on its way to the press, was effected simply because of the Bulletin's daring and outspoken exposure of fraud and corruption, is certain.

Judge McArthur states positively that he did not issue an order for the seizure of the Bulletin's forms. It seems the police acted under orders from Chief of Police Badger. The power behind Banger has not transpired.

The Funeral of Mr. Butler, the Distin-guished Lover of Dogs-A Congregation Complying with a Dying Request.

The remains of Mr. Benjamin Francis B Butler were buried yesterday afternoon from St. Barnabat Protestant Episcopal Church in Bushwick avenue, Brookiyn. At 2 o'clock the funeral cortege, consisting of a long line of carriages and an immense concourse on foot, moved away from the commodious, old-fashioned dwelling occupied for twenty years by Mr. fashioned dwelling occupied for twenty years by Mr. Butler. In the procession were Charles W. Godardt, once Captain of the Port of New York; Rufus L. Scott, Samuel Coverly, Dr. Ward, and others. The pall hearers were Messrs. George C. Bennett, of the Brooklyn Times, B. E. West, Andrew B. Martin, of the Board of Education; John L. Nostrand, Jas. Saulter, and D. E. Brayton. The editice in which the funeral services were performed was too small to hold one-third of the multitude that had gathered. The beautiful service of the Frotestant Episcopai Church was conducted by the Rev. Henry E. Hovey, the rector. He was assisted by Mr. George Jardine. It embraced a voluntary on the organ and Baunback's beautiful "I heard a voice," by the full choir. In compliance with a request made by Mr. Butler in one of the moments of consciousness preceding his death the entire congregation united in singing "Rock of Ages." Many of the multitude outside took up the strains of the grand old hymn. The interment was in Cypress Hills Cemetery Mr. Butler was 64 years of age.

Eleven More Obstinate Men. The protracted trial of Andrew L. Roberts, on an indictment for forging a New York Central Railroad bond, was concluded in the Oyer and Terminer on Saturday evening by a discharge of the jurors, after they had been hopelessly deliberating for twenty-eight hours. It was another case of eleven obstinate men. The eleven desired to say not guilty, because they thought the tainted testimony for the prosecution was unworthy of belief, but the other juror insisted in many long winded speeches that the proper thing to do with the bond forgers was to convict all accused persons as tast as they were presented for trial, trusting to the private detectives employed not to make a mistake. Mr. Hall moved, after the discharge, that the prisoner be admitted to bail in a reasonable sum, dilating upon the hardship of his eight months' confinement in the Tombs. The Judge promised to hear an argument on this motion to morrow. bond, was concluded in the Oyer and Terminer on Sat-

Grand Sachem Augustus Schell's letter of in-vitation to the Tammany celebration of the coming Fourth of July contains the following: Fourth of July contains the following:

The burning shames of Louisiana and of Arkansas,
South Carolina plundered by an initerate Legislature, and bankrupted by an indicted Governor; the national Capitol converted into a den of thieves; a successor of Hamilton and of Guthrie expelled from the Federal Treasury for facilitating the robbery of its vaults, and consoled by an insolent Executive with a seat on the judicial bench; our national honor and the safety of our citzens abroad left to depend on the forbearance of foreign States; a policy of financial expedients administered openly in the interest of partisan schemes and of Presidential or Congressional cliques.

If these things do not move you to meet with us now, what words of ours could do so?

The Burial of the Murdered Giant. The body of Mortimer Sullivan, who was killed on Friday in Murray street by Henry Gill, was "waked" on Saturday night at 120 Worth street, near Elm, and on Saturday night at 120 Worth street, hear Elm, and was buried yesterday in Calvary Cemetery. The residents of the Sixth Ward turned out en masse, and the funeral was very large. The Kenmare Benevolent Society and other societies, in all about 2,000 men, started from the house about 2% P. M. In the line were the Hon. Jeremiah Murphy, Mark Lanigan, Martin J. Keese, many deputy sheriffs, court officers, and policemen. The hearse was drawn by four white horses, and was followed by over one hundred carriages. Gill sat moodily in his cell, No. 58 in Murderers Thow, all day yesterday, and would not talk with any one.
